School on Wheels

It's a hot afternoon in the city of Hyderabad, India. A school bus is stopping in a poor area of the city. Some children are running towards the bus. They want to look inside. They're happy and excited.

The bus is a classroom, and for many of India's poor children, it is their only hope for an education. Many children in India's poor areas haven't got schools to go to. Some of them work to help their families. Others stand on the streets and ask people for money. This special bus brings school to them.

It's clean inside the bus. There are pictures on the walls and cupboards with textbooks and notebooks. There are pencils, pens, glue and a TV. There is a teacher, too. The children learn to read and do maths.

They also get a hot meal. A doctor sometimes comes to the bus to check the children's health.

Right now about 40 children are sitting on the bus. They are listening to the teacher and writing in their notebooks. Ten-year-old Devi is learning on the bus today. After she finishes work with her father, she comes to the bus to study. Devi wants to be a teacher one day. Manjula is studying on the bus today, too. She hopes to become a doctor.

The school on a bus is the idea of a man called T. L. Reddy. He wants the children to enjoy school. "This is the only chance they get to be kids, even if it is only for two hours," he says.
